This space is dedicated to the Matter in Extreme Conditions instrument of LCLS. It contains details on the instrument components and their use. The website contains restricted sections for staff-use only. The current organization is the following:

- Open access: sections 0 to 9
- Restricted to staff: sections 2.5, 10 and 11

Table of Content

Other important spaces

Matter in Extreme Conditions Instrument Page on slac.stanford.edu

- Please submit edits here (google docs), using comments or suggestions.

MEC SRD Confluence

Beam Delivery confluence

Recent space activity

Cunningham, Eric Flint
YFE Turn-On Procedure updated yesterday at 01:23 PM view change
YFE Turn On Procedure (Converted from PDF) commented yesterday at 01:22 PM
7.2. Rack map updated yesterday at 12:28 PM view change

Peregrine McGehee
Run 22: L-10177 [McBride] updated Apr 19, 2024 view change

Robert Nicholas Ettelbrick
LPL Beam Alignment into Target Chamber procedure updated Apr 15, 2024 view change

Space shortcuts

Beam alignment checklists

Space contributors

- Cunningham, Eric Flint (23 hours ago)
- Peregrine McGehee (3 days ago)
- Robert Nicholas Ettelbrick (7 days ago)
- Christian Tsoi-A-Sue (11 days ago)
- Philip Hart (28 days ago)
- ...

MEC editors/admins

Below is the group list having maximal access to this page. If you feel you should be included then you can request membership through SLAC IT. Generally this is the MEC ops team including matrixed individuals.

>> Show/hide editors

User list not rendered as you do not have the privilege to view user profiles.

>> Show/hide admins

User list not rendered as you do not have the privilege to view user profiles.

Tasks assigned in meeting notes

Task report

Looking good, no incomplete tasks.