

Accessing SLAC internal resources from the Stanford guesthouse

The guesthouse network has recently moved from SLAC network to Stanford network. This means that in order to access some particular internal SLAC resources from the guesthouse users may need to use SLAC VPN (Virtual Private Network).

To use SLAC VPN users must go to <https://vpn.slac.stanford.edu> and to click on “Start Anyconnect” after authentication. They must have a valid SLAC windows account VPN enabled, if not the authentication will fail.

User can request an account to be VPN enabled by sending an e-mail to account-services@slac.stanford.edu (operating during business hours).

Full documentation on SLAC VPN is available on <https://confluence.slac.stanford.edu/x/eav9BQ>

The wireless SLAC visitor network is still available in public areas like the Cafeteria.

From the SLAC network team - 6/8/2012 – net-admin@slac.stanford.edu