

SCS bullet points for week ending 2014-06-06

Scientific Computing Systems supplied the chassis for a failing file system that was needed by BaBar. As a result of this intervention, the BaBar analyst was able to successfully finish running jobs to meet a critical deadline. She was able to present the results at an international conference at the end of May and will be publishing a paper soon.