

Confluence outage on July 10 2014, from 1730-1800 PDT

There will be a short Confluence outage this evening starting at 5:30pm PDT to diagnose, and possibly fix, an ongoing problem synchronizing authorization data between Confluence and Crowd. As part of this process, the SSO feature for Confluence will be disabled. This means users who use both Confluence and JIRA will have to sign in to each separately. We hope to re-enable this feature in the new future, once the synch problem is fixed. Our apologies for any inconvenience.