

Confluence outage

There will be an outage of confluence at 6pm PDT today to update to a new version, and to install a new version of the Calendar plugin. The update consists of bug fixes and security updates, so users should not notice any significant changes.

The outage is expected to take less than an hour.