

Linux Docker containers with LSF

Docker containers may provide a 'lightweight' solution for running multiple linux environments on a single host. Science collaborations could create Docker 'images' that encapsulate their libraries and executables. These images could be portable across multiple computing centers and clouds. LSF has beta Docker integration features that we want to evaluate. Take a look at this presentation and let us know if you're interested:

LSF_Docker.pdf