ET System

ET System

Overview

The ET (Event Transfer) System provides clients with access to events over the network or shared memory. ET itself is format independent and is used to package other formats such as EVIO. Consumer applications such as monitoring are responsible for decoding the byte payload from the ET events into the appropriate format.

Resources

- ET System Homepage
- ET System GitHub Page.